REF: REFERRING/RECOMMENDING - VALEY BARONGO

It is our pleasure and honor to recommend Mr. Valey Barongo, a small scale farming and agriculture Tanzanian physically disabled (paralyzed legs and walks with a crutch) farmer. He is among our Foundation For upholding Agriculture practice (FUAP)'s reputable active founding members and has remained so to date. The Foundation For upholding Agriculture practice (FUAP) is a non-governmental organization aiming to identify the future of agriculture practice in Tanzania, and pave a technological path toward it. FUAP is registered under the non-governmental organization ACT, 2002 and registration No.00NGO/00010132 under the Tanzanian government law. Food demand is proportional to population growth, and farming methods do not meet our demand and future's. To ensure sustainable and reliable food production to meet our food demand, FUAP integrate cut-edge technologies with our agriculture and farming system, to boost agriculture production as stepping toward food security.

We understand that Valey together with his spouse formalized their self-help support initiative farm into the Barongo Evergreen Farm Investments (BEFi), a business farming and agriculture social enterprise solution to POVERTY and HUNGER challenges start-up project for people with physical disabilities to engage and participate in the project's farming and agriculture activity works alongside sustainable food/financial earning returns, they have applied to the Pollination Project support grant funds for their farming and agriculture BEFi project activity works.

Mr. Valey, apart from being the project's founding leader, he is also an atheistic, highly self-motivated, efficient, hard working person and a highly organized individual who knows the content of the modern era.

Valey Barongo is truly a stand-out who impresses everyone he meets with his commitment of empowering people with physical disability colleagues through his ground farming and agriculture activity works and attained achievements. In view of his proven qualities and appropriate basic professional qualifications he possesses, we strongly recommend him without hesitation in ensuring the right proper usage and accountability of the grant funds they have applied for their social humanitarian start-up project organization works.

Sincerely
